

CORTE Press Release n°1 – 2013

CORTE Road Transport Law Magazine

- Issue n°5

5 February 2013

The start of 2013 brings with it the release of the fifth issue of CORTE's Road Transport Law Magazine. This latest issue provides insight into the reforms envisaged by the European Commission with regards to road traffic, the latest developments in European legislation on vehicle safety as well as on the ambitious status of the Transport Manager. By providing in-depth analysis of the European legal framework in terms of road transport, CORTE aims at promoting a better understanding of the legal changes affecting the sector in Europe.

Taking into account the importance of the road transport sector in the mobility of people and goods across Europe, the proper understanding of the legal frameworks and the changes affecting this sector is crucial. The highly regulated nature of road transport requires special attention as it has a great impact on several aspects of daily life – whether we refer to the economical, political, environmental or social. The Road Transport Law Magazine aims at better understanding these legal frameworks and the changes affecting them.

! The CORTE Road Transport Law Magazine was available for free. The next issues will be available to subscribers only. The Magazine is published quarterly in English for 400€ per year. For subscriptions or queries, contact CORTE at 37 Rue des Deux Eglises, B-1000 Brussels, Belgium; Email: secretariat@cor.te.be; Tel.: + 32 2 286 80 32 / Fax: + 32 2 286 80 37.

By fostering closer relations among national authorities and road transport stakeholders with the aim of building consensus on best enforcement practices, CORTE constitutes a key player in the European road transport sector. The Road Transport Law Magazine has quickly come to represent a key publication for practitioners, lawyers and academics in the field, as it is one of the only legal publications dedicated to EU road transport.

CORTE trusts that the Road Transport Law Magazine will bring value to the understanding of a fast changing road transport sector. We hope to offer a useful tool in your daily work.
